Warsaw Captured By Reds and Poles

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Polish provisional government at Lublin triumphantly announced today the liberation of Warsaw, bloody and ruined city which was the first national capital engulfed by the Germans in this war. The announcement, broadcast by the Polish regime established last Dec. 31 at Lublin and immediately recognized by Moscow, declared:

"Warsaw has been captured. Formations of the Red army and Polish army have occupied Warsaw, the capital of the Polish Republic."

The last word from Moscow was that Warsaw had been outflanked on the southwest by Soviet winter offensives. But Moscow may have designated the Lublin government to announce liberation of Warsaw, scene of an epic but fruitless uprising by the Polish underground last fall.

The broadcast, repeated three times, was heard by the BBC at 12:30 p. m.

(A Berlin broadcast declared

LONDON, Jan. 17 (INS)—The London Evening News today quoted a German military spokesman as saying Russian troops are in the eastern fringes of Czestochowa, 15 miles from the German frontier.

a Russian offensive above Warsaw had reached to Modlin, 17 miles northwest of the Polish capital, and beyond Nasielsk, 23 miles north-northwest of Warsaw.

(Enemy attacks with 40 infantry divisions and several rifle corps cut in north and west of Warsaw, the broadcast said, but were stopped at Modlin at the confluence of the Bug and Vistula rivers, and at a point west of Nasielsk.)

The Lublin announcement came as two mammoth Soviet offensives below the capital were advancing through Poland on a virtually unbroken 200-mile front, striking to within 38 miles of the German Silesian frontier, and into the defense perimeter of Krakow, ancient capital in southwest Poland.

(The British radio said the Germans have begun evacuation of Krakow.)

Berlin declared the Soviet blows in south and central Poland had not reached a peak.

Warsaw fell to the Germans Sept. 27, 1939, after a 20-day siege which left the city in ruins. Despite crushing Gestapo methods and a huge ghetto dooming untold thousands of Jews, underground resistance never flagged through five years of occupation.

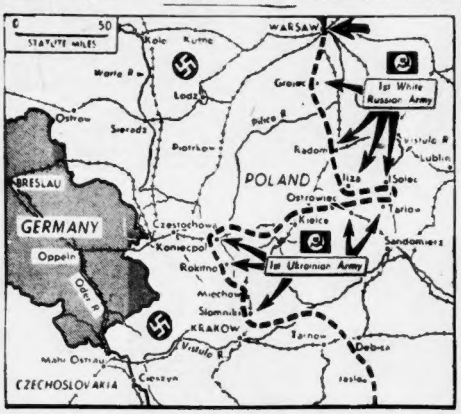
At the end of last July a Soviet offensive battered to the Vistula at the edge of Warsaw, and the underground under Gen. Komorowski (Bor) rose against the Germans in full-scale battle. But their fight became a tragic slaughter. The Russians were stopped in the suburbs, and the underground resistance was broken Oct. 3 after a 63-day battle. They had taken heavy toll of Germans, but an eyewitness who escaped said 250,000 Poles died in the uprising.

By Jan. 15, it was estimated 770,000 of Warsaw's 1,300,000 inhabitants had been killed, and fully 75 per cent of the capital had been destroyed.

Warsaw is a rail-highway hub with communications reaching in all directions over the Polish plains, linking main routes between East Prussia and North Germany.

"The Russians are not sparing either men or machines," asserted one German broadcaster. "They are out to force a decision of the war."

"At no point did the Germans appear to be holding," said Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore in a dispatch from Moscow. "They were in full flight from numerous salients and chaos was evident in almost every quarter."



POLAND—The Polish radio announced today that Red and Polish forces have occupied Warsaw. To the south, Russian forces took Grojec, Radom, Ilza and Solec . . . while the First Ukrainian Army swept into Tarlow, Ostrowiec, Konieepol, Rokitno and Slomniki.

Bombers Batter Berlin, Oil Plants

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Ranging formations of American bombers and fighters touched off air raid sirens as far east as Berlin today in a swift follow up to a tremendous night attack on German oil and industrial targets by the RAF.

Headquarters of the U. S. Strategic Air Force announced "U. S. Eighth Air Force heavy bombers with fighter escort are over Germany."

During the night the RAF dropped more than 6000 tons of high explosives on three German synthetic oil plants and the railway and industrial center of Magdeburg.

More than 1200 heavy bombers participated. Specific targets included synthetic oil refineries at Wanne-Eickel, near Leipsig, and at Brux, Czechoslovakia.

U. S. Tanks Trap Nazis; British Bayonets Gain

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—Bayonet-wielding Britons of the Second Army drove today into the Dutch village of Dieteren, between the Maas (Meuse) and Roer rivers 23 miles above Aachen, in advances up to 1000 yards in a resumption of Gen. Eisenhower's winter offensive.

The rested troops crossed the little Roode river at two places and pushed steadily on over glassy roads and snow-drifted farmlands on the fringe of Germany. The attack was aimed at straightening the Allied line to the upper Roer, whose west bank is held by the U. S. Ninth Army from Linnich to Schmidt.

The U. S. First Army, further reducing the Belgian bulge, drove to within five miles of St. Vith, last major road center of the Germans in the salient.

Inside Germany to the south, an undisclosed number of enemy troops were trapped near captured Butzdorf by Third Army tanks.

The British attack, started with a massive artillery barrage—Field Marshal Montgomery's military trademark — apparently caught the Germans napping.

The Tommies captured a bridge over the Roode intact as they advanced, ghostly in white capes, through a relatively soft spot in German defenses.

Dieteren is two miles from the German frontier and six miles north of Sittard.

The fog which shrouded the attack by infantry and tanks also slowed progress of the British, who could hardly see their buddies along the assault line.

The German salient in the Ardennes is now nowhere more than 15 miles deep.

In the Maginot line battle north of the Haguenau forest, the U. S. Seventh Army had withstood three days of an increasingly powerful German attack against Hatten and was slowly beating the Nazis back from the town.

The cross-Rhine German stand north of Strasbourg was under two-day attack by Lt. Gen. Patch's troops for the first time.

The 30th Division (Old Hickory) of Maj. Gen. Leland S. Hobbs of Washington, D. C., moved closest to St. Vith by advancing through a spruce forest east of Recht.

Only 310 prisoners were taken in closing the Houffalize pocket yesterday, another indication of the successful German retreat from the pocket.

Marshal von Rundstedt appeared attempting a new stand in the eastern end of the Ardennes salient. German troops were seen digging in feverishly and the enemy commander again deployed armor in some strength at strategic points.

Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army captured Rachamps, two miles north of Noville and cleared the north-south road from Bastogne almost to Houffalize.

The Third Army prisoner count since Dec. 22 rose to 15,269 with yesterday's 772. This raised above 40,000 the number of Germans who have surrendered in a month.

Pilots reported many German trucks stalled for lack of gasoline in the St. Vith-Bitburg area.

Nazis Repel U. S. Attacks in Italy

ROME, Jan. 17 (AP)—American patrols attempting to reach San Ansona just west of the Florence-Bologna highway were turned back yesterday by enemy small arms fire, Allied headquarters announced today.

On the Fifth Army's right flank machine-gun fire raked Allied positions in the area of Monte Battogliola. In the central sector there were a number of fights.

Britain's Greek Policy Unaltered, Eden Says

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today the British position in Greece "is not varied, has not been varied, and will not be varied." The House cheered.

Under fire from Left-wing factions, Eden refused to go into "wider issues" on the Greek problem and promised that Prime Minister Churchill would make a statement on the whole situation tomorrow.

Bike Nazis in Suicide Charge

HOUFFALIZE, Jan. 16 (Delayed) (AP)—Members of the Second Armored Division reported today that during the drive toward Houffalize yesterday one of its light tanks encountered 60 Germans mounted on bicycles.

The Germans dismounted and charged the tank in a Banzai-like fashion. They screamed and cursed at the Americans, who mowed down every one of the attackers.

"They must have been drunk or crazy with the cold," said Lt. Col. E. A. Trahan, Lafayette, Ala.

Formosa, Tokyo Hit By B-29s

By Associated Press

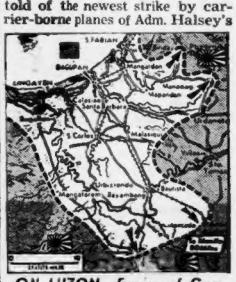
Waves of China-based Superforts bombed Formosa today in an explosive aftermath of a three-day carrier raid on the fortress-like island and 350 miles of the China coast in which more than 35 Japanese vessels were destroyed or crippled.

Single B-29s from Saipan, the Tokyo radio said, carried out nighttime forays on industrial Nagoya, Kyoto and the Tokyo area.

Tokyo said 80 Superforts raided Formosa and that there were 40 Jap casualties.

The slashing, carrier-paced air war stole the limelight from the U. S. Sixth Army's invasion of Luzon Island in the Philippines, where Yank troops repulsed the first Jap counterattack on one flank while the other covered a third of the distance to Manila virtually unopposed.

The full story has not yet been told of the newest strike by carrier-borne planes of Adm. Halsey's



ON LUZON—Forces of Gen. MacArthur continued to push through Luzon from the Lingayen Bay beachheads and are today reported within 80 miles of Manila.

Third Fleet. Partial reports listed at least 104,000 tons of shipping sunk or damaged in lightly opposed raids on Hongkong, Canton, Swatow, Amoy and Formosa's Takao naval base.

Additionally 49 planes, seven locomotives, ammunition dumps and docks were destroyed. Other installations were left in flames. Jap planes made no attempt to defend either Hongkong or Canton.

Adm. Nimitz definitely listed only nine ships as sunk, 21 damaged, and more than 50,000 tons of shipping sunk or damaged. He indicated final reports would increase the toll.

In seven days of sweeps over 1200 miles of the South China sea—once known as a "Japanese lake"—fast carrier forces have hit 300,000 tons of shipping, eliminated 250 planes and done untold damage to shore installations from Amoy to Saigon in French Indo-China.

Across the China sea, the Japs used light tanks in their first counteroffensive against American ground troops carving out a great offensive base on Luzon.

The Jap thrust was repulsed. It was made without banzai cries or suicidal charges on the American northern flank reaching toward the summer capital of Baguio.

On the southern front, tank-led American columns were reported only 83 road miles from Manila after a 45-mile advance from their beachhead. This word from a headquarters spokesman placed them 13 road miles beyond Moncada, newest point listed in Gen. MacArthur's communique as taken.

Associated Press war correspondents reported patrols ranged 25 miles ahead of U. S. lines and said fleeing Japs were dumping food in the river to keep it from Yank hands.

Strip Teaser First On Stand in GI Trial

LONDON, Jan. 17 (INS)—A blonde strip-tease dancer must testify ahead of her American paratrooper boy friend in their joint murder trial in grim Old Bailey Court despite her plea that his "threats" had intimidated her, the trial judge ruled today.

Bewigged Justice Charles refused to reverse the scheduled witness box appearances of Elizabeth Marina Jones, 18, and Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten, 22, of Cambridge, Mass., jointly charged with slaying a London cab driver last Oct. 7.

The cabbie, George "Cleft-Chin" Heath, whose bullet-riddled body was found in a ditch at Staines, near London, was slain by the AWOL soldier and his companion for his taxi and his money, the Crown contends.

Sitting in the prisoner's box as the first American soldier to face a capital charge in a British court, Hulten heard Detective Inspector Percy Reed of Scotland Yard describe his capture two days after the murder.

"After finding Heath's abandoned cab, we kept watch until the paratrooper came out of a house and entered the vehicle," Reed said. "Then we closed in, pulled him out of the car and pushed his face against a wall. In his back left-hand pocket was an automatic pistol."

Reed's testimony followed that of Mrs. Ivy Winifred Heath, who told of identifying her husband's body in a London mortuary, and of Leonard Bexley, who said he first saw Hulten in a private's uniform and on a second occasion attired as a second lieutenant.

Hulten seemed "quite a decent chap," Bexley said.

Mrs. Violet Fleisig, a friend of the dead cabbie, identified articles assertedly sold by Hulten as belonging to Heath.

She pointed to a fountain pen, magazine pencil, cigaret case and lighter and to a wallet the Crown charges the dancer rifled after her companion shot Heath during a taxi ride.

"I know that wallet because Heath carried a photograph of me in it," Mrs. Fleisig said.

The opening of the second day of trial was attended by mounting public interest.

Crowds gathered before the Old Bailey court three hours beforehand. Those who did not hope to gain access to the 40 public seats,

Mother Burned As She Saves 8

Braving flames which turned her home into an inferno, Mrs. Evelyn Casey, 34, of Cowperthwaite st., Cambridge, today led six of her eight children to safety and then returned to rescue the other two.

Her heroism resulted in multiple burns on her body, arms and head and she was rushed to Cambridge City Hospital, where her name was placed on the danger list.

The youngest child, Robert, 1½, one of the pair for whom she risked her life, suffered minor burns and was under treatment at the same hospital.

The other children saved were Evelyn, 13; Ruth, 11; Maureen, 8; Joseph, 7; Sue, 5; Helen, 3, and Louise, 4.

While Mrs. Casey was rescuing her children, their father, Thomas W. Casey, ran to summon police and firemen.

Fire officials said the blaze started in a second floor bedroom when an oil burner exploded, spewing flames throughout the upper part of the house.

Feed the Birds!

The heavy snowfall may have been an inconvenienc to humans but a bird's-eye view of it is a sorry sight indeed, the Animal Rescue League emphasized today.

Almost everything the feathered creatures eat is deep under the white drifts. So it is up to man, the League appeal stresses, suggesting grain, a general seed mixture, sunflower seeds, corn meal, meat scraps, beef suet, ground soy beans or the good old bread crumbs—whole wheat preferred.

Snow to End By Nightfall

With only the weatherman's optimistic forecast that the snow would end by nightfall to give them hope, state and city highway crews worked today to keep roads open as Boston was covered with an accumulation of 10 inches.

The nor'easter which began 24 hours ago gave way to moderate snow and the weather bureau predicted there would be little additional accumulation.

The official fall was recorded at 4 inches, but many suburbanites claimed depths up to seven or more inches where it drifted.

The new storm gave Boston a total of 17.9 inches for the first 16 days of January compared with a January average of 11.8.

Boston and Albany officials reported their crack trains, the Wolverine and the New England States, nearly three hours late. The New Haven line said the overnight Federal Express arrived 30 minutes late and commuter trains were running five to 20 minutes behind.

Acting Mayor John E. Kerrigan, in an effort to save money on snow removal, abolished the old "yardage" pay system for private contractors and ordered that only equipment be hired from firms.

This action countered the move made by former Mayor Tobin who, it was revealed recently, extended all 1944 snow removal contracts to May 1, 1945, as one of his last official acts before becoming Governor.

Public Works Commr. William T. Morrissey said 14 city-owned and 14 private snow loaders, with 300 trucks, were being used. More than 800 workers were on the job and Morrissey issued an appeal for more.

Boston El officials reported practically normal operations and said more than 265 pieces of snow equipment and 1000 men were clearing tracks and terminals.

Coast Revives Nisei Boycott

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 17 (AP)—Anti-Japanese feeling manifested itself in a new way in two Oregon communities today as signs appeared in store windows warning returning Nisei that "no Jap trade" is solicited.

Placards sprouted throughout Hood River valley, where the American Legion post recently provoked bitter controversy by erasing names of Japanese-American soldiers from its honor roll. Groceries, repair shops and filling stations joined in the move.

Other cards were displayed in Gresham by a grocery and a hardware store, reading "No Japanese trade solicited for the duration." Both merchants are members of Oregon Anti-Japanese, Inc., which opposed Nisei taking back acreage leased to white farmers during the coast ban.

Only three Japanese-Americans have returned since government restrictions were lifted. One of the trio, Ray Sato, told the War Relocation Authority here their neighbors were "more than gracious" and that they had begun pruning their orchards.

Said Sato: "There's nothing like being home."

Instal Fr. Brady Bishop in N. H.

By JAMES F. McENANEY

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 17—In the presence of a congregation of distinguished clergy and laity that filled St. Joseph's Cathedral, Most Rev. Matthew Francis Brady, D.D., of Vermont, was installed today as fifth Bishop of Manchester.

MOST REV. MATHEW F. BRADY
Installed Today at Manchester

Archbishop Cushing of Boston was the installing prelate at the solemn rites and more than a dozen archbishops and bishops participated.

At the conclusion of the colorful installation ceremony, Bishop Brady pontificated at his first solemn high mass at the local cathedral.

The Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, bishop of Providence, in his sermon lauded Bishop Brady for his care of the sick and the young and for his militant support of the working man. Bishop Keough also preached the sermon on the occasion of Bishop Brady's elevation to the See of Burlington in 1938.

"His compassion and care of the sick; his protection of the orphans and his solicitude for the poor," Bishop Keough said, "are attested by the success in Vermont of the Catholic Charities which he organized and administered.

"His vigorous efforts to gain for the working man a living wage and the right to organize are nationally known and unfversally acclaimed.

"These are the duty of a bishop and already he has filled them nobly in his former See. In the tremendous unrest of the present, it will be these definite teachings of the bishops which will be the answer to the blind gropings of men for some fulfilment of their hopes."

Abp. Francis J. Spellman of New York, who was expected to assist Abp. Cushing in the installation, was unable to be present, apparently delayed by the storm.

Distinguished prelates who did take part in the ritual included Abp. John G. Murray of St. Paul, like Bishop Brady a native of Waterbury, Ct.; and Bishops Henry J. O'Brien, Hartford; Thomas M. O'Leary, Springfield; James E. Carney, Rochester, N. Y.; William M. O'Shea, M.M., of Korea, and Rossini Broedeau, of Alexandria, Ont.

Atty. Maurice J. Devine of Manchester was chairman of a delegation of laymen who greeted Bishop Brady. Distinguished leaders of state who attended the cathedral ceremonies included U. S. Sen. Styles Bridges, Gov. Charles M. Dale with four members of his executive council and two from his military staff, Mayor Joseph Benoit of Manchester, former Gov. Francis P. Murphy, Judge Aloysius Connor of the U. S. District Court and Joseph Sullivan, a Knight of Malta.

The papal brief was read by Rt. Rev. Jeremiah S. Buckley of Concord, administrator of the Manchester diocese.

Following the pontifical mass, Bishop Brady was host to the visiting prelates at a luncheon.

Frank Merriwell Author Dies at 78

SAN DIEGO, Cal. (AP)—Gilbert Patten, 78, who wrote under the pen name of Burt L. Standish in producing the popular "Frank Merriwell" stories, died in his sleep in the home of his son, Harvan Barr Patten, in Suburban Vista, Cal.

Gilbert Patten began his "Frank Merriwell" stories in 1896 and continued them for 17 years, using Frank's fiction brother "Dick" when the former graduated from Yale and later "Frank Merriwell, Jr." It is estimated that during his lifetime he wrote 40,000,000 words.

Patten spent his summers for half a century in his home "Overocks" at Camden, Me.

Innes Defends Bills For Single Election

Asserting his only objective was to fulfill the desire of a majority of Boston voters for a single mayoralty election this year, Sen. Charles J. Innes, Back Bay, declared his two measures, on which the joint committee on cities opened public hearings today, were not directed at any particular candidate.

One Innes measure provides for elimination this year of a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of former Mayor Tobin while the second would advance the date of the regular city election from November to May.

"It is immaterial to me which of these measures is approved," Innes declared. "My only objective is to save expense to the taxpayers and time for the war effort, which would be consumed by two municipal elections.

"They were not filed with a view to affecting the candidacy of any person as such partisan activity would be improper. My object is to carry out the expressed desire of the majority of voters for a single municipal election this year."

The Innes statement was made public by the Senator prior to his appearance in ardner Auditorium which was thronged with many objectors to the measures for revising the city charter, which callscalls for the ity Council to set a special election to be held within 90 days of the date of the resignation of a mayor.

The committee opened its session with hearing on a third bill, which would grant an acting mayor of Boston all the power and authority of an elected mayor and pay him the same salary received during his tenure.

Rep. Patrick McDonough, South Boston, one of the sponsors of the measure, urged its passage, saying an acting mayor at present had no appointive power to name police and firemen and had no authority over the action of department heads.

Seated with the committee was Rep. George J. O'Shea of Lynn, who prior to the meeting had asserted his belief in the policy of home rule for Boston and every other city.

"It is not particularly my concern," said Rep. O'Shea, "what the voters of Boston do, but I want them to have the right to make their decision and not have it made for them by the legislature.

"When the mayor of my own city of Lynn, Maj. Albert Cole, resigned to enter the armed service, there was no demand on the legislature for any change of the city charter. We merely abided by the charter.

"There is no difference between the Lynn situation and the situation that now exists in Boston. The city charter of Boston calls for a special election. I believe that Boston is entitled to such an election without further delay and in complete conformity with the city charter.

"I feel that if our highest court should be asked to express an opinion upon the Boston situation, unquestionably it would direct the city council to follow the provisions of the city charter."

MULE-SKINNER BAIL $6000 AS BOGUS HERO

William Wray Holt the Greenboro, N. C., farmhand who courted Boston debs, subdebs and socialite matrons while posing as a dashing Army captain and Air Forces ace, was held in $6000 bail for the federal grand jury today by U. S. Comr. William C. Rogers.

Two FBI agents testified against the handsome ex-mule skinner. He told them, they said, that he had been discharged from the Army last August and had changed to civvies but found life unexciting.

Holt picked up the Army captain's uniform, added decorations to his liking and began his swathe-cutting at a New York hotel. Then he flew here, obtained a room at the Statler and set forth on a career of dazzling Back Bay beauties.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Thomas P. O'Connor told Comr. Rogers that Holt was wanted in New York on a fugitive warrant in connection with charges he had impersonated an Army officer. Rogers held him in $3500 for the grand jury here and in $2500 for New York.

One Place to Find Manpower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Rep. Barrett (R.) of Wyoming today suggested government officials looking for manpower take a look in the driver's seat of official automobiles in Washington.

"The other day I saw a big sedan drive up to the Capitol with a uniformed driver in the front seat and one man in the back seat," he told reporters. "There's manpower for you."

Barrett found out what's going on with government cars. A partial result of his survey:

There are 667 civilian automobiles in Washington assigned to government officials or agencies. About 90 per cent of them are chauffeured. The car he saw with one passenger belongs to the Federal Housing Agency.

"Why couldn't that fellow ride in a taxi?" Barrett asked. "Or, in times like these, what's wrong with the street cars? He doesn't need a driver to get him around town."

DENIES CLAIM THAT CHILD BELONGS TO SUSPECT—Joan Crawford, film star, reads to her two adopted children, Christina and Phillip, 2d, while her husband, Phillip Terry, also of the films, listens after Miss Crawford had denied that one of the children belongs to Mrs. Rebecca Kulberg, charged by federal authorities with sending a threatening letter to a Los Angeles social worker, after gaining entrance into the star's home and claiming the child.

Bob Hope Ticket Rush Tops in Garden History

Boston Garden officials declared today that demand for tickets for the Bob Hope show on Jan. 24—already a complete sell-out—was the greatest since the Garden opened. Tommy Waters, in charge of the ticket office, said his staff handled the biggest mail order rush ever and the box office demand set a record for a single performance.

Jerry Colonna

The gala show, in which Hope and his radio program stars, will appear for the benefit of the disabled servicemen of New England, was sold out within a few hours of the opening of the ticket office at the Boston Garden. The Boston Arena, also, exhausted its allotment within a few hours.

In subscriptions received at the office of the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, sponsoring this great show for the Hospitalization Servicemen's Fund, 900 tickets—and only 900—were sold.

As thousands of persons thronged the Boston Garden ticket offices, vainly seeking tickets, the rumor spread that there were seats for sale at the offices of the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

These offices were besieged with prospective ticket-buyers and the telephone switchboards deluged with calls asking about available seats. With the exception of the 900 already subscribed for, however, there were none for sale. A block of 500 tickets had been laid aside for wounded veterans who will be the guests of the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser at the show.

The stars accompanying Hope will include Frances Langford, Jerry Colonna, Skinny Ennis, Vera Vague and Toni Romano. All proceeds of the performance will be devoted to the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser Hospitalization Servicemen's Fund.

Hope and his troupe of chosen favorites of America's servicemen in their two trips overseas and their thousands of appearances at camps and hospitals in this country, have just finished a bomber tour of seven Army airfields in Oklahoma, Kansas, and Colorado, and have already arrived in the East. Yesterday was "Bob Hope Day," a community festival, in Philadelphia.

He will continue touring camps and hospitals on the coast, and his appearance here a week from tomorrow will follow by 24 hours his regular Tuesday night radio show held from a Rhode Island naval base under sponsorship of the Pepsodent Co.

Not to be outdone in generosity of talent, other stars of stage and screen, radio and night club will join the gala benefit.

The list of luminaries includes:

The famed Aristocrats quartet; the Latin Quarter's stellar attractions, Pat Rooney, the Edwards Brothers, the Amory Brothers and the Don Arden Dancing Beauties; the Mayfair's stars, Gracie Barrie, Ginger Harmon, Herb Lewis and Johnny Howard.

From the RKO Theater, the King Cole Trio and the favorite trumpeter, Louis Prima, along with the songstress, Germaine, and the popular Buddy Bonds of Myles Standish. Other celebrated entertainers will join the all-star show and their names will be announced daily in the Record-American.

Moyne Death Trial Ends, Wait Verdict

CAIRO, Jan. 17 (AP)—The trial of two young Jewish nationalists, charged with the assassination of Lord Moyne, British resident minister in the Middle East, ended today, and the presiding judge announced the verdict would be delivered tomorrow.

The last words in the trial were spoken by the youthful Eliahou Bet Souri, who quietly thanked defense attorneys, but said he did not subscribe to many of their statements regarding the political situation in Palestine.

Bet Souri remarked, "I want to make it perfectly clear that every action by members of our organization is committed in accordance with its orders."

Eliahou Hakim, who admitted firing the shot which killed Lord Moyne, first was given the opportunity to make a final statement. He began to explain why he deserted the British army. "I left the army in order to kill Moyne," Hakim said.

The judge cut him short, and asked if he had anything new to add in his defense. Hakim replied: "I've said my last word."

Bet Souri's attorneys launched a violent attack upon a prosecution move to alter charges against him in order to make him bear a full share of responsibility for the assassination.

Prior to the prosecution's action yesterday, Bet Souri had been charged with the slaying of Moyne's chauffeur, but had been accused merely as an accomplice in the killing of the diplomat.

Baby Girl's Death Charged to Hit-Run

Three-year-old Rosemarie Carroll, whose body was found in an alley near her home in Eutaw st., East Boston, yesterday, was killed by a hit-run driver, her mother, Mrs. David J. Carroll, declared today.

She based her belief on the fact that a package of macaroni, for which the child had gone on an errand, was discovered smashed under her body and some of the contents were imbedded in one of her ears, which had bled.

Mrs. Carroll said Rosemarie had gone to the store with her 7-year-old sister and several other girls, who remained in the store about 15 minutes after she started for home with her package.

The other girls discovered Rosemarie's lifeless form when they left the store. Meanwhile, it had been found by Joseph Battaglia of Trenton st., East Boston, a truck driver, who rushed the body to a hospital in a vain attempt to save a life.

FOR DADDY—Mrs. Josephine Van de Walle, Decatur st., Arlington, holding her 2-month-old son, William, will send this Boston American photo to the youngster's father, BM 2-c M. C. Van de Walle, somewhere in the Pacific. The proud father, who has served in the Aleutians and the Pacific, with four major battles to his credit, has never seen the child.

Going Back to Grade School Tough on 22-Yr.-Old Veteran

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 17 (AP)—The 22-year-old war veteran who came back to grade school admitted today he might not be able to stick it out.

Arley Arthur Morgan, a student in the sixth grade here, said he'd like to be set up as an example to other discharged veterans who didn't get an education while boys but—

"In a month or so I'll know how this is going to work out," he said.

Morgan, discharged from the infantry for poor eyesight after serving overseas, entered school last week.

Said Mrs. Francis Fischer, his principal:

"He's doing well and shows a keen interest in his studies but what worries him is being considered an oddity."

In the Army, Morgan says, many soldiers are beginning to realize the advantage of an education, and want to go back to school.

"I know several men with the same idea I had and several hadn't even reached the sixth grade.

"I could read and write, which is more than a lot of other guys can do."

Morgan quit school in Shady Grove, Fla., joined the CCC, and went from there to the Army.

All-Night Parking Cost Is $8.50

All-night auto parking in Somerville streets is a costly proposition.

Eight motorists, including two city officials, found that out today as police launched a drive to eliminate overnight parking.

Police issued no tags, gave no warnings. They hauled the cars to garages. When the owners reported their cars stolen, police informed them where their cars were.

To reclaim their machines, motorists were billed $8.50 each. Itemized bills said $8 was for towing, the 50 cents for storage.

Ledo Road to Triple War Aid to Chinese

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Allied officials are shooting for a triple increase in the tonnage of supplies moving to China after the Ledo road is opened in the next two or three weeks.

The hope is to put approximately 100,000 tons of munitions a month into China. The tremendous efforts to step up air deliveries "over the hump" from India have hit an all-time high of above 30,000 tons a month.

If all goes well, it may be possible to have a modernly equipped but relatively small Chinese army in the Chungking area this year.

Thus the imminent conclusion of the north Burma campaign has greatly brightened China's military prospects. But informed estimates of the situation by Washington officials suggest little improvement in the Chinese political picture.

Main facts in the Chinese political puzzle are:

1—Dissident elements in Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang party are gaining strength and the 15 to 20 old-time conservatives who often have been blamed for looking after their party interests rather than the ultimate welfare of China no longer are secure in control.

2—Chiang remains the only real Chinese national leader. American policy, welcoming the upsurge of the liberalizing malcontents within the party, is supporting him.

3—Nevertheless, President Roosevelt's representatives in Chungking, most notably Ambassador Patrick Hurley, are constantly putting pressure on Chiang to get together with the Communist elements in North China and add their resources to the Chinese war effort.

Millions Switch To Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Colds

Quickly Relieves Children's Colds' Coughs, Loosens Phlegm

Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin. No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along newer help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro.

Bless Congress!

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Rep. Rich (R.) of Pennsylvania, wants President Roosevelt, the cabinet, military leaders, the Supreme Court and the diplomatic corps to come to Capitol Hill and kneel in prayer at a joint session of Congress.

Rich proposed the prayer period in a resolution leaving it to congressional leaders to pick out some day in February.

"The purpose," the resolution said, would be to ask "God's divine guidance in the deliberations and actions of Congress."

Paris Night Clubs Closed by Ban

PARIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—An ordinance prohibiting floor shows and other entertainment in night clubs as a means of conserving fuel and electricity has virtually brought an end to Paris' gay night life.

The clubs are permitted to keep their bars open, but at the prices charged—for instance, $1.40 for a drink of cognac—there are few customers.

Food prices are sky high. One bartender was observed selling three slices of bread thinly spread with pate de fois gras for 600 francs—approximately $12.

Rising Strikes Cut British Production

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Strikes in Britain during the first 11 months of 1944 cost the loss of more time and production than in any similar period in 12 years, according to the British Labor Ministry.

Up to Nov. 30, a total of 3,648,000 man working days were lost through strikes as compared with 1,810,000 for the entire previous year, a ministry analysis showed. Nearly all the increase was attributed to coal mining disputes.

German-Born Citizen Leaves All to U. S.

SEATTLE, Jan. 17 (AP)—German-born Otto Kalbe, 76, butcher and former ship's cook who died Monday, left his entire estate, $3000, "to the United States of America as an expression of gratitude in being granted the privileges of citizenship," his will has disclosed.

He wanted it to aid the war effort, his attorney, Miss Mary Burrus, said today.

Portugal Denounces Air Raid on Macao

LISBON, Jan. 17 (AP)—An official press department dispatch declaring unidentified planes had bombed the Portuguese-owned port of Macao on the China east coast brought from Lisbon newspapers today editorials denouncing the raid as "an outrageous and unjustified" attack upon Portuguese neutrality.

DEAD WOMAN IDENTIFIED

An elderly woman, who died on the way to City Hospital after collapsing in a Back Bay theater, was identified at Southern Mortuary today as Mrs. Elizabeth Vera of Huntington ave., Back Bay. Identification was made by her daughter, Mrs. Geraldine Boden, who appealed to police after becoming alarmed at her mother's failure to return home.

Gun Suspect Faints in Lineup

Denying a statement he allegedly made to police in Stafford Springs, Ct., concerning the shooting in Dorchester of Patrolman Thomas Supple in 1937, George F. "Red" Hogarty, 42, collapsed in the police lineup today and was removed to Charles st. jail.

Hogarty was arrested yesterday on an indictment charging assault with intent to murder as he left Charlestown State prison, where he had completed a sentence for possessing burglar tools and a revolver.

Lt. James V. Crowley declared Hogarty gave the statement to Boston officers in Stafford Springs where he was being questioned concerning the shooting of Walter Miller, of Chelsea, in that town, May 2, 1937.

Crowley said today that ballistic tests showed the bullet which wounded Miller was fired from the same gun with which Patrolman Supple was wounded in April, 1937.

Miller allegedly accompanied Hogarty and another man to a house in Milton st., Dorchester, where Patrolman Supple found them and was wounded.

A few weeks later Miller staggered into a Stafford Springs filling station, declaring Hogarty and his companoin had shot him for "talking too much."

3d Rail Electrocutes Woman in New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Eva Schecter, 35, was unhurt when part of a subway train passed over her as she lay between the rails at the Times Square station last night, only to be electrocuted when she touched the third rail. She jumped or fell from the platform.

Motorman Fred Spencer reported to police he told her not to move while he summoned aid to remove her. When he returned, Spencer said, he saw she had touched the third rail carrying power to operate trains.

Subversive Groups Still Here--Rankin

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Communist, Nazi and Japanese subversive groups—poison in the bloodstream of the nation—are waiting to revive their movements to destroy the American form of government in the postwar period, Rep. John E. Rankin (D.) of Mississippi warned the country in a radio address.

Rankin, who led the successful fight against left-wing forces for the formation of a standing House committee to investigate un-American activities, declared:

"The hundreds of thousands of Communists in America, along with the Germans, Japs and other un-American elements, must be watched and spotlighted because their aim is the destruction of our system of government and our way of life."

In listing the need for such a permanent committee, Rankin asserted its vigilance was necessary to combat "poison like the American Communists who since 1920 have used ever-changing tactics to undermine and weaken our government, wipe out the Constitution and destroy everything our fathers have built, in the hope that out of chaos they might seize power.

"There is also the poison of German bund members in America who, under Fritz Kuhn, established outposts for Hitler in 36 states before we were aware they were conspiring to substitute Hitlerism for our democracy. Those thousands who goose-stepped and heiled every Sunday in these camps are still in our midst.

"And there is the poison of the thousands of so-called Japanese-Americans here who, although born in the United States, hold their allegiance to the emperor of Japan and take their orders from the Black Dragon Society, one of the most dangerous and far-reaching organizations that ever conspired to stir race trouble in this country."

Dead Man Has Single Lung, Heart on Right

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 17 (AP)—A post-mortem examination of the body of James Gray, Jr., 22, showed he was born with one lung and with his heart on the wrong side.

Morgue officials said that chances of a person being born with his heart on the right side would be one in 10,000, and of being born with one lung even rarer. Gray's body was found in a theater restroom.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Real Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective medicine for coughs due to colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of very effective and quick-acting cough medicine, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving you delightful relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

How many lives has an M-18 HELLCAT?

One way to answer that question is to take a look at battle-front reports from a Buick engineer, sent to get firsthand dope on how the Buick-built M-18 Hellcat is doing.

On one occasion, he writes, one of our Hellcats ran into nine enemy tanks of various sizes.

When the smoke cleared away, all of the German vehicles lay in blasted ruins. The Hellcat was knocked out, too—but only after taking a nine-to-one toll.

In another engagement, eight M-18's were attacked by 20 enemy tanks. When the battle was over, three German tanks were scurrying for cover, 17 were done for—and none of our vehicles or men had been hurt.

But that isn't the whole story.

To the men who handle them, ability to stay in the fight is just as important as the Hellcat's 55-mile top speed, its ability to master any terrain, and the accuracy of its high velocity 76-mm. cannon.

On that score, this can be quoted direct from the same sort of battle-front reports:

"The vehicles have gone mile after mile with little or no maintenance, and in most cases they keep right on going."

All of which, as we see it, makes a gratifying picture. The Hellcats are fast. They go anywhere. They hit hard. And, in the good Buick tradition, they can take it.

Which is exactly what Buick men and Ordnance experts were aiming for from the start.

Cigaret Ration Plan Called Unworkable

Plans to ration cigarets struck two serious snags today.

Chester A. Bowles, national OPA administrator, said OPA rationing of smokes was an impossibility, and local tobacconists admitted they believed without OPA help the voluntary rationing plan proposed by the National Ass'n of Tobacco Distributors would be unworkable.

"The OPA has considered cigaret rationing but there is no way they could be rationed and make it work. I would be very happy if the distributors could show me how it might," Bowles declared.

Boston tobacconists queried concerning the plan of the National Ass'n to issue cards to every cigaret smoker, the cards to be punched on each purchase and limiting smokers to 15 cigarets a day, declared the plan might work in neighborhood and small town areas but would be impossible to work in the city.

They pointed out that the association plan does not include card punching for bus terminals, chain stores, newstands and hotel and club outlets in the cities which distribute millions of packs of cigarets a day.

It was pointed out here that if any of the members of the Distributors Association or any retailer refused to "go along" with the plan and was cut off from his supply, the Interstate Commerce Commission could be called in to probe "restraint of trade," which attorneys stated would be involved in any reprisal measures.

Synthetic Rubber Seen Postwar Staple

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones has raised the possibility that America's new synthetic rubber industry might compete with the natural rubber industry after the war.

He said some government-owned factories are producing synthetic rubber at less than the cost of natural rubber.

He also announced the United States produced 763,000 tons of synthetic rubber in 1944. (This country normally used between 600,000 and 700,000 tons of natural rubber a year in prewar times.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (INS)—The brown derby that the late Alfred E. Smith made famous as a political symbol occupied the most prominent spot today in the Alfred E. Smith memorial exhibition on display at the museum of the City of New York.

U. S., Britain Ships Alloted to France

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The United States and Britain have agreed to allocate a number of ships to the French government before April 1 to help meet France's import requirements, the British foreign office announced today.

The announcement added, "It is hoped that it will prove possible to make ships available for subsequent months."

Paper Shortage At Mills Critical

Faced with a critical shortage of waste paper, representatives of 45 New England paper mills held an emergency meeting at the Copley Plaza today to plan new ways of increasing salvage supplies.

The War Production Board was represented by John T. Kiley, regional salvage manager.

William F. Edwards, manager of the Eastern Consuming Mills committee, said:

"There has been an alarming drop in waste paper salvage recently. I hope we shall be able to work out remedial measures, because we are faced with heavier military demands than at any previous time. The situation is serious."

Q—I took a boy, aged 6, and have cared for him until now. He will soon be called into service. Could he make his insurance out to me? S. A., Medford.

A—A serviceman may designate any of the following persons as beneficiary: wife, child, parent, brother, or sister. "Parent" also includes a person who has stood in place of parent to him; therefore he could name you.

Q—I have lost my son's Army mailing address; where or how can I find out what it is? C. M. O., Hazardville, Ct.

A—You may write The Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D. C., giving your son's full name and Army serial number. That office will furnish the latest address.

Q—My husband was killed in action. If I should remarry would my insurance payments stop? G. W., Holyoke, Mass.

A—Insurance payments are made to beneficiary regardless of marital status.

Q—I was discharged from the Army over a year ago. Would it be possible for me to re-enter the service? A. R., Portland, Me.

A—You should discuss this matter with your local draft board as it comes under their jurisdiction.

Q—My brother is in the service and has a family allowance for our mother, and two younger brothers. My mother died last month. Now I have to give up my job and stay home to take care of the younger children. Can I receive the family allowance that used to be paid to my mother? Her checks were for $79.00.

A—The amount of family allowance paid for your mother and minor brothers was for chief support. If you are over 18 you are not eligible for family allowance. However, payment will continue for the children as long as they are dependent upon the soldier. The check will be in the amount of $53.00 and can be made payable to you if you request that change at Office of Dependency Benefits, Newark, N. J.

Q—Kindly tell me if I am entitled to mustering-out pay for my son. He was killed in action. S. E., Medford.

A—A mustering-out pay is paid only if the soldier is honorably discharged from the service. You are not entitled to receive mustering-out pay, but the six months' gratuity pay instead—providing the soldier did not leave a widow or child.

Q—I haven't lived with my husband for three years before he went into service. If he is killed on his insurance? M. V., Arlington.

A—The insurance is payable to the person whom the soldier designates as his beneficiary. In this matter he is limited to the following persons: wife, child, parent, brother or sister, but he may designate any one of those as he wishes.

HARD, PHYSICAL LABOR!

Darning socks can consume as much energy as digging a ditch! Today, because of war, many eyes that should be resting, are working overtime . . . Few people realize how much energy can be wasted through needless eyestrain . . . nor how easy it is to avoid eyestrain. Here are four very simple rules which will help conserve eyes and energy:

1. Do all reading, studying, sewing, game-playing close to a good reading lamp.

2. Avoid glare from bare bulbs. Don't sit facing the light. Glare strains eyes.

3. Avoid shadows. Make sure you have good light directly on your book or work. Shadows strain eyes.

4. Have eyes examined regularly. If eyes are defective, vision can be greatly helped with proper glasses.

IDEAL JUROR

A FEW DAYS ago the little town of Wenham leaped to national fame when it was announced that the municipal government did not owe a cent and had a surplus of $79,390 in the bank—more than enough to finance the community for an entire year without collecting taxes.

Now it is revealed that much of the credit for this unique solvency belongs to Mrs. Benjamin A. Getchell, tax collector since 1935.

We hope the provenly competent Mrs. Getchell is not aspiring to the honor of serving on a jury in this State.

If she has any such ambition, she will find—if she has not already made the disillusioning discovery—that she is barred by an out-moded law from this duty of citizenship and that Massachusetts places all women in the category with children and morons so far as juries are concerned.

We need women like Mrs. Getchell on our juries. They would raise the standards of Massachusetts courts and make our judicial deliberations less lopsided.

BELATED AMENDS

THE WITCHES of Colonial days may be dead, but their shades linger on in Massachusetts.

Sen. J. Elmer Callahan of Salem has just asked the Legislature to absolve the names and reputations of the unfortunate victims of the fanatic purges in which the early settlers indulged after they had come to the New World seeking religious freedom—for themselves.

Acceptance of Mr. Callahan's petition can hardly benefit the men, women and children who were burned at the stake, hanged and cruelly tortured three centuries ago.

But it will please their living descendants, and for that reason, passage of the bill is probably justified.

However, while the law-makers are engaged in the task of righting the wrongs of yesterday, they should not neglect the old Blue Laws which were placed on the statute books by the witch-killers and bigots.

WORKING WOMEN

MORE THAN 80 per cent of the women now employed in industry hope to continue working after the war.

That is the claim of Miss Frieda Miller, director of the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

We do not know how the 80 per cent estimate was made or on what it is based.

But we do know scores of women who have taken jobs in factories and arsenals to boost the nation's war effort and, in many instances, to supplement allotments received from their soldier or sailor husbands.

With few exceptions, these women are looking anxiously forward to victory and peace, when they may resume housekeeping in a normal fashion after many of the jobs, temporarily held by women, have been returned to veterans, who deserve the best the grateful nation can give them.

THEY'LL BE ENVIED

SENATOR CHARLES W. OLSON of Ashland would like members of the Massachusetts Legislature to be more substantially recompensed for their labors in behalf of constituents.

The Senator has filed a bill upping legislators' salaries from $2000 to $3500 a year, plus an added $1500 for a home office and secretarial service.

With incomes of $5000, our law-makers will certainly be the envy of Senators and Representatives in many States.

New Hampshire solons get only $200 every two years. Connecticut pays $300 for each biennial session, Vermont $400, Maine $600 and Rhode Island $5 a day.

HOLLYWOODIANS are financially backing most of the plays on Broadway. They seem to think the only place successfully to introduce a stage play is in New York. Some of the greatest hits in stage history were first introduced in Los Angeles. For example, "Abie's Irish Rose," "The Bird of Paradise," "Peg o' My Heart" and "So Long, Letty." That was long ago, you say. All right, if that's the way you feel about it, let me call to your attention that a play which just completed a run of three years in New York was first produced in Hollywood. I am referring to "Angel Street."

PLEASE NOTE: To the London, Eng., Daily Mirror a fighting man has written as follows: "As a private in the paratroops I get two shillings a day 'jumping pay,' out of which I am required by law to pay 11 pence income tax. Surely parachute pay should be tax free, especially after the great epic of Arnheim."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: A—New York isn't what it used to be is it? A—No, sir. Hardly anything remains the same, except the Brooklyn Bridge and the price of a ride on the subway. When there's skating in the park they don't even put the red ball up on the street cars. Beer is 15 cents a glass. There are no colorful press agents like Harry Reichenbach, no picturesque boxers such as Battling Siki, the singular Sengalese, who strolled down Broadway wearing an opera cloak and a high hat and leading a leopard on a leash. Most shows that are hits now would have been errors in the yesteryear. Reporters live in the suburbs and raise chickens or grow dahlias. The bartenders put grease on their hair and strive to be heartthrobs for the lady patrons. City editors are writing books. All the models are married. The public used to bawl the mayor out, but now its vice-versa. LaGuardia bawls the public out.

SAYS SHE: "The reason so many girls prefer middle-aged men as escorts is not, as often claimed, due to the man shortage," writes a young woman of Chicago. "Middle-aged escorts were on the preferred list before the war. The reason is that men in their 40's are more considerate, courteous and appreciative than young men. The young fellows act as if they are doing the girl a favor by taking her out." (Note—Keep that in mind, young fellow. Be appreciative. Incidentally, many young fellows say the reason some girls prefer middle-aged escorts is because that type of man generally has more money to spend than a young man.)

"Guess who!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—The revolution against the terms "GI" and "GI Joe" seems to be proceeding nicely, but I believe a case can be made for the contention that they were not slapped on the soldiers by outsiders but invented by the troops themselves.

Westbrook Pegler

Early in the draft—when the new men were just learning Army dialect—they were impressed by the term "GI," meaning "government issue" or standard stuff and called themselves "GIs."

About the same time, the use of the name "Joe" became common among them, too. But, at first, the two were employed separately.

Speaking of another man in his outfit, a soldier would say "he is a good Joe," but it was not a term of personal address as in the case of "Buddy" in the Army of the first World War.

A man would not sing out "What outfit, Joe?" as his father had saluted strangers in the same cloth with "What outfit, Buddy?"

DAMON RUNYON, who is to our native slang as Henry Mencken is to our more substantial, and enduring, if quaint, forms of expression, says that for 40 years "a Joe has meant a Jasper, a Joskin, and Yokel" and he may be right. But I don't know where it was so used. And I have been around many of the places where he has been during much of the same time, always with an ear stretched out.

Joskin I never encountered until he used it a few days ago in deprecating "GI" and "GI Joe" as undignified.

In my time "Joe" was applied exclusively to immigrant laborers on railroad and other construction gangs, and that was long ago. The boss would yell "Hey, Joe" and a bunch of them would come a-running.

Some people, mostly drummers and a few inexperienced travelers who wanted to seem worldly, used to call all Pullman porters "George," a practice which was deftly put down by some subtle propaganda eased into print by the late James Keely, former tyrant of the city room of the Chicago Tribune, who ended his aggressive career in the milky role of press-agent and good-will provocateur for Pullman.

Nobody who knows his way around calls a porter "George" these days and anyone who really wants to call a porter by name usually can find it in the little frame at the end of the car.

OTHERWISE, though, and speaking from my own experience, "Joe" seems to have been originally a baseball term, denoting a non-descript but earnest sort of fellow who made awful, awkward mistakes and looked very unpromising in the spring but later opened his pores, got the hang of things and stood up all right.

My memory has it that it was first used, aside from its application to the laborer, about the spring of 1930 when Al Lopez, the Cuban catcher, came up to join Uncle Wilbert Robinson's Brooklyn club which always looked hopeless in Clearwater but generally floundered into the first division at the end.

Asked if he intended to keep Lopez, Uncle Wilbert said he didn't think so. He didn't always know his players' names or personalities and here was a highly intelligent young man, destined to be a great catcher, who hadn't even caught his eye yet.

During that camp stay one of the essayists reported that Uncle Robby would start the season, as usual with Dazzy Vance and a lot of guys named Joe but probably would do all right as usual. That, I believe, is the true origin of the expression "a lot of guys named Joe" from which the soldiers, in turn, adopted their Joe and with about the same meaning.

★ ★ ★

USED BY civilians and the press and radio, however, I agree that "GI" and "GI Joe" do sound familiar, patronizing and undignified and presently will fade

The French soldier was not called "Poilu" in this war, possibly because he no longer wears whiskers that brought the name down on him in 1914

Mr. Kipling publicized the name Tommy Atkins and the British people did call their enlisted soldiers Tommies and with no disrespect, either, but rather with affection, and the modern British troops, certainly no longer the ignorant Kipling Tommies of the slums, did not resent it.

Hollywood . . . By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17—I was with Gene Tierney when Darryl Zanuck told her she had been chosen to play Ellen in Ben Ames Williams' best-selling "Leave Her to Heaven" and you can take my word, she's the happiest girl in 40 states.

Nearly every actress in Hollywood, and a couple in New York, have been up for the role of the insanely jealous wife who stops at nothing, not even murder, to hold her husband's love.

Gene Tierney

Gene received the good news when we were all attending the Zanucks' 20th wedding anniversary party given by the Lew Schreibers and Gregory Ratoff. It was really an occasion to remember, highlighted by warm speeches and a feeling of real friendship. Darryl told me he had decided to give Gene "Leave Her to Heaven" because he did not want to go outside 20th for a star and he felt she deserved it after "Laura."

IT WILL BE JOSEPH COTTEN with Ingrid Bergman in "The Scarlet Lily" when Selznick starts the Mary Magdalene story before the cameras this spring. Joe plays the role of Tullus, the Roman nobleman, and infidel, who loves Mary Magdalene and seeks to thwart her regeneration. Sounds like Joe is reverting to his bad boy roles after being so good for a couple of pictures. There's one thing he can be thankful for, however. He gets younger with every movie. In his first three films he played men over 60 and in "Shadow of a Doubt" was a 45-year-old uncle. William Dieterle directs the Technicolor "Scarlet Lily," which is David's biggest for '45.

I AM NOT surprised Noreen Nash, who is the wife of Dr. Lee Siegel, in private life, has a new Paramount contract. Paulette Goddard was the good angel in this effort. Dr. Siegel happens to be Burgess Meredith's physician and when Buzz introduced Paulette to the Siegels she became very enthusiastic about Noreen's beauty and arranged for a test. If Noreen has a talent that matches her face, you'll hear from her in 1945, because she's so lovely that whenever she enters a room people turn and stare and ask her name.

She is well known in Chicago and New York, where she appeared at the Chez Paree and Havana Madrid. But you'll be seeing her in the movies, too, for she's been signed for a dancing role in Republic's "New Faces of 1945."

DON'T-YOU-LOVE-IT DEPARTMENT: After Virginia Zanuck saw Tallulah Bankhead's performance in "Royal Scandal" she was so thrilled she couldn't resist sending Tallulah a wire saying: "You deserve the Academy Award."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Somerset Maugham's London home has been demolished by a robot bomb; that toupee George Jessel is so proudly wearing is for "The Dolly Sisters." He plays himself in 1922 before his hair started thinning on top; the newlyweds, Marian and Joseph Fields, are here for a few months. He wrote 'My Sister Eileen" and other hits; Joan Bennett and Walter Wanger hosted a very pleasant cocktail party for the Abraham Bienstocks. The guests of honor were held up by a delayed train, but the festivities continued anyway. Saw Loretta Young and Col. Tom Lewis, and Tom told me a funny story that happened after he and Loretta won their lawsuit against "Bugsy" Siegel. A little woman who had followed the case every day in court dashed up to Tom and said, "I'm so glad you won your suit. Your wife, Bette Davis, is my favorite star and I want you two to be happy!" Another nice party the same day was hosted by the Stanley Bergermans in honor of Louis Bromfield, author and reporter par excellence.

CHATTER: Mrs. Dolly O'Brien, the society matron the Hollywood oracles are foreseeing as the next Mrs. Clark Gable, is the former lovely wife of Jay O'Brien, the polo player who used to be Mae Murray's dancing partner.

As the wife (previously) of Jules Fleischman, the Cincinnati yeast king, she was the sensation of Palm Beach and Long Island society in the late 1920's . . . Dolly's wealth is estimated at five or six millions, which is not far from the unofficial assessment placed on Capt. Gable's fortune.

JOHN COSTELLO'S popular Music Box will not be affected by the auction sale of the Copley Square Hotel, scheduled for Monday . . . When the Music Box lease was agreed upon, its term was for seven years, with a seven years' option, and the understanding was that the pact would prevail regardless of possible mortgage foreclosure . . . Speaking of hotels, the enterprising Boston-owned Sheraton Corporation is in the middle of a huge deal which would merge the corporation's assets with those of the U. S. Realty Company. (This deal has been State Street gossip for weeks, and here is the vergication) . . . Included in the assets of the U. S. Realty Company, now in receivership, is a large block of stock in the famous Savoy-Plaza Hotel in New York . . . And two Broadway, one Wall Street and one Tremont Street (Boston) buildings.

AND SPEAKING of money—$100,000-plus has been raised by a group known (again) as the Boston "Goo-Goos" . . . Oldtimers in politics will remember the "Goo-Goos" . . . James M. Curley, a candidate for mayor in 1921, coined the term to identify the original organization, the coinage resulting from a merger of the first letters of the first two words of "Good Government Ass'n" . . . (The resourceful Mr. Curley added a second "o" to the first two letters of "government" for euphony).

CURLEY WON over the "Goo-Goos" in that mayoral contest, although John R. Murphy was conceded the victory until the votes were counted . . . We remember the circumstances quite vividly . . . It was our job then to put the picture pages of the old Advertiser-Record to press . . . When the returns were in, a full-page picture of Mayor-elect Curley ornamented the entire first page . . . But the caption-writer underlined the photo with this cutline: "I've beat the 'Goo-Goos'" . . . It was supposed to have been a direct quotation, relayed by the City Hall reporter, of Mr. Curley's victory statement. ★ ★ ★

THE MANAGING editor, however, had met Mr. Curley . . . "Replate that Page 1," he ordered. "Curley is a purist in the English language . . . If he said 'I've beat the Goo-Goos,' I'll eat that five-column cut. Make it read: 'I've beaten the Goo-Goos'" . . . And so it was done.

But, as we started to say, the fund-sum of $100,000-plus has been raised by "Goo-Goos," although Robert J. Bottomley, an organizer and outstanding "brain" of the earlier group, is not among those present . . . The new "Goo-Goos" wish to contribute—in strict accordance with the election laws, of course, and through a number of individuals the $100,000-plus already pledged . . . Trouble is they can't hit on a candidate with a chance to win!

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY Steve McCluskey, active in the central council of Irish county clubs, is being backed by his friends to meet all comers in billiards. (In a dozen years of writing a pot-pourri of town happenings, we do not recall having mentioned this indoor sport before) . . . A Boston medico who specializes in sinusitis says that we have had more snow in three weeks than we experienced all last winter . . . He follows the climate with the intensity of a meteorologist . . . It may be comforting to quote an unverified statement by this doctor that sinus therapy these days is leaning more and more toward discovering a food allergy that may be responsible . . . Almost 70 per cent of sinus cases, the doctor says, can be traced to an allergy . . . (Skin tests—60 in all are necessary to identify the allergy, however) . . . Boston, incidentally, is running neck and neck with Washington in the proportion of the population affected with sinusitis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—To my childish eye, which sees only externals, there never has been a sight more beautiful and inspiring than the magnificent sweep of Capitol Hill.

The great upland panorama always seemed touched with the sublime—the lovely landscaping, noble proportions of the Capitol itself, the grandeur of surrounding structures — Supreme Court Building, Library of Congress, Senate and House Office Buildings.

To me it typified the strength and enduring greatness of America. Dignity seemed to walk its splendid reaches.

But now what am I told? I am informed, in no uncertain terms, that it is:

"Rum Row in Washington—the shame of the nation!"

THIS IS the characterization—in exact words—of Clinton N. Howard, general superintendent of the International Reform Federation. He insists—it is really a Hell's Kitchen, wallowing in iniquity.

To prove his contention, Mr. Howard presents a diagram showing there are no less than seven—think of it!—seven!—saloons in the vicinity!

★ ★ ★

BUT THAT is not the whole diabolical picture. There are seven saloons now—but Mr. Howard warns that if we of the better element are not vigilant and on our toes there will soon be eight.

It seems that another restaurant proprietor, apparently lost to moral values, wishes to obtain a license to sell—the shame of it—W-H-I-S-K-Y!

MR. HOWARD sounds the tocsin cry that, if this pernicious application goes through, our fair city will become one with Nineveh and Tyre, meaning shot to you-know-where!

It happened to Babylon and a number of other hot spots, Mr. Howard reminds us. I gather he considers it already has happened to many of our leading metropolises, because he says:

"Eternal vigilance is the price of morality. What would become of our great cities if the moral forces were not continually on the alert? Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago are your answer today, and Washington bids fair to become a victim to this lack of vigilance tomorrow."

★ ★ ★

THE SPECTRE certainly is terrifying. I bet my mother is glad I am not in Boston, New York, Philadelphia or Chicago, surrounded on all sides by debauchery.

★ ★ ★

MR. HOWARD continues his denunciation which I have had to edit slightly because he uses words my mother told me are naughty. He says:

"The encyclopedias tell us that Babylon was the seat of luxury, wealth and vice. Where is Babylon today? A heap of rubble; buried beneath the sands of time."

Boo! Hoo! Poor Babylon!

★ ★ ★

I WONDER how Mr. Howard feels about that unspeakable den of vice, the House Restaurant? It sells beer!

★ ★ ★

SENATOR TRUMAN sent this letter to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri:

"Due to the fact that I am to be sworn in as Vice-President of the United States on Jan. 20 I am tendering my resignation as U. S. Senator from Missouri, effective Jan. 1.

"I understand you are expecting to be present for the ceremony. I shall be most happy to see you, and if there are any errands here that can be performed for you either before or after I am out of a job as senator I will be glad to do them."

Go out and get us a couple of ham on ryes, willya, Harry?

SEN. HOMER E. CAPEHART of Indiana, who makes radios on the side, has been considerably disturbed since coming to Washington because nearly all the write-ups refer to him as a millionaire.

He confided he didn't get really upset, however, until he received this letter from his son, Tom, now with the First Army in France:

"Well, Pop, I see you are a millionaire. Glad to learn it. How about sending me a check?"

★ ★ ★

SENATOR CAPEHART insists he's only a small manufacturer, although his Indianapolis plant has 1200 employes. Just a very rich pauper?

★ ★ ★

THE ONLY OTHER current bit of intelligence I have concerning Senator Capehart is that his 15-year-old daughter Pat is definitely anti-Frank Sinatra.

This is most discouraging because Miss Capehart is typically bobby sox.

"I just don't care for the slow and silly way he sings," she said—casually blasting a great national conviction.

Flavoring Tricks

By MARTHA LEE

IT'S GOOD to have home-canned vegetables now with nary a point to worry about. But if some of them seem to be getting a bit monotonous, why not try snapping them up with a sauce or seasoning, or a flavoring food like onion?

A hint of nutmeg or mace in a cream sauce adds snap to snap beans. Tomato or curry sauce, chopped hard-cooked egg, finely chopped onion, dripping from ham or salt pork, a dash of onion salt or lemon juice with melted fat, or a little vinegar with sweetened cream or evaporated milk will add variety to beans, too.

COMBINING VEGETABLES

Have you tried mixing canned vegetables with fresh ones: peas and carrots, tomatoes and celery, corn with onions and green pepper, tomatoes with eggplant, cauliflower, or onion, potatoes in tomato sauce?

When a jar of canned vegetables is more than enough for a meal, use leftovers in main dishes, soups, or salads. Vegetable pies, stews, curries, chowders and scallops, and egg dishes such as souffles, make hearty main dishes. Cooked leftover vegetables for winter salads taste better if marinated in French dressing and allowed to stand in a cold place for at least 30 minutes.

EGG VEGETABLE CUTLETS

2 cups mixed canned vegetables
2-3 cup uncooked oatmeal
1 tbsp. chopped onion
1 tsp. salt Dash of pepper
3 or 4 beaten eggs 2 tbsp. fat

Add vegetables, oatmeal, onion, salt and pepper to beaten eggs. Melt fat in a frying pan and drop in the vegetable mixture by spoonfuls. Brown on both sides. Makes 12 servings.

SCALLOPED CORN AND TOMATOES

2½ cups canned tomatoes
1 cups drained canned corn
1/4 cup minced onion
2 tbsp. minced green pepper, if desired
1/4 tsp. sugar, if desired
1 tsp. salt Pepper to season
1 to 2 cups soft bread crumbs

Combine vegetables, sugar, salt and pepper. Place in baking dish alternate layers of the corn-tomato mixture and soft bread crumbs, ending with bread crumbs. Dot with fat. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 20 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

VEGETABLE CURRY

½ cup rice 1 cup diced onion
2 qts. boiling salted water
1 cup diced carrots ½ tbsp. fat
1 cup diced celery
1 cup canned peas ½ tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. curry powder
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Wash rice and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, rinse with cold water and let stand over steam until the grains swell and separate. Cook onion, carrots and celery in a little water and just before removing from stove add peas. To the liquid from the vegetables add the fat, salt, curry powder and Worcestershire sauce. Make a ring of the cooked rice on a hot platter, pile the vegetables in the center, pour the liquid mixture over them, and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

VEGETABLE PIE

3 cups mixed canned vegetables
2 cups thin white sauce, thickened broth or gravy Salt
Onion, celery or green pepper
Biscuit dough or mashed potatoes

Combine mixed vegetables with white sauce, broth or gravy. Season well if needed. Onion, celery or a little green pepper may be added for flavor. Put the hot vegetable mixture in a baking dish, cover with rounds of biscuit dough or with leftover mashed potatoes and bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes six servings.

Fashion

THIS IS ONE bridesmaid's dress that will never hang in the closet. Made with a flattering tucked top, the bodice is balanced so that the dress is equally well proportioned . . . whether the skirt is long or cut off street-length. A group of leading American designers contributed this smart idea to the bridal business clinic held in New York last week.

Table Manners Tip

Before you take a drink from a glass during a meal, wipe your lips with your napkin. And teach your children to do this too. It prevents unsightly smears on the glass.

Healthy Hair Important

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

WOMAN'S TRADITIONAL GLORY . . . soft, shiny, healthy hair . . . always important, will be more so this spring if the high, wide and handsome topper is to be properly justified. After viewing some 100 or more models . . . strutting their sartorial glamour the past week . . . you come to realize that each and every one of them owes in some measure her photogenic loveliness to a blooming crop of stunning hairdo.

We're not concerned with the style of your hairdo today . . . but we are with the texture of the strands that you twist and turn to give your face a nice setting. So if your hair is dry, lusterless and brittle from permanents, setting lotions, tints and winter winds . . . if your scalp seems more flaky and sensitive because it is suffering from an authentic case of war jitters . . . no matter how carefully you plan the hairdo it will fall short of interest and appeal.

There is a one-minute, one-preparation hair treatment . . . designed especially for problem hair . . . which we know can accomplish much for your crop in an incredibly short time. Perhaps you'll see a decided improvement after one trial . . . because the beauty house that created it has 90 years of cosmetic chemistry and research behind it. It's their special scalp salve . . . an effective, non-sticky lubricant, circulation stimulator and delicately fragrant brilliantine all in one.

It is a pale golden, lightly scented ointment which you massage into your scalp with your fingertips.

Non-sticky and light as a wisp . . . it doesn't muss or disturb your planned hairdo but sheens the hair so that it falls softly and smoothly into place. It has strengthening qualities also . . . and will nourish brittle and broken ends into growth. Remember that a sleek, simple hairdo, while youthifying to the face . . . is much more demanding on your hair than curls and frou-frou . . . often used as a disguise for unhealthy hair. But sleekness is still the biblical fashion word.

For the name of this one-minute hair and scalp treatment salve, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MOST OF THE New York models are wearing their hair high . . . in a simplified version of the upswept hairdo, but not pompadour! If you're in a mind to follow them with this unusual coiffure that becomes lovely Columbia Star Janet Blair . . . be sure your hair is lustrous and highlighted . . . smooth and soft . . . as radiant as the jeweled clip on your shoulder.—R. M.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Tuesday —Yesterday afternoon I had a very pleasant call from Mrs. Charles B. Gilberg, Mrs. L. V. Price and Mrs. James E. Meetum, who had been attending a patriotic women's meeting here.

They passed a number of resolutions, but as I talked to them I gathered they were not entirely convinced that the future would justify all the things which might seem necessary at present.

At the same time, I could not help thinking that one of the great advantages of our form of government is that we can make changes easily. If we do things at one time because they seem necessary, there is no reason why we cannot change later on when conditions change.

* * *

PEOPLE IN THIS country who are familiar with the winter climate in France, Germany, Holland and Belgium, as well as northern Italy, must read the daily stories of the hard fighting going on in all these areas with a very deep sense of gratitude to the infantrymen.

I understand that sometimes the men feel their job is not very much appreciated. All of us know that on every front the final victory is never assured until the infantry marches in.

Those of us who give it any thought know that in many ways the infantryman's job is the hardest and the most discouraging. He sits in the mud, he marches on his own two feet, he carries much of his own equipment, he makes his shelter, if he has any, and he meets the enemy face to face.

* * *

IN ALL THE OTHER services, it seems to me, brief letups are more frequent. For the infantry it is just grind, grind, grind.

At this time of year, when I know so well that everything which climate can bring by way of discomfort is added to his daily job, I want to turn our thoughts to him in gratitude.

New Printed Fashions

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ONE of the big changes in Spring shoe style is the return of colored shoes and colorful trimmings for neutral shoes. You'll find soles and heels of bright color for instance. This is all very good news, but I think you'd better consider that color at your feet increases your dress problems, for it does.

If you are going in for color on your shoes then you'll do much better to pick your clothes first and see that your shoe colors go well with the costumes you'll be wearing them with, or you'll be sorry.

Color anywhere in your ensemble, your hat, your shoes, your bag, gloves or elsewhere, has to be tied in with your costume color if you hope to be well dressed, to be as charming to look at as you ought to be. And, it isn't just color. Shades of color can ruin your looks if they snarl at each [illegible] bright color [illegible]

Week-End of Skiing

By BETTY ALDEN

OLD MAN WINTER'S snowy blasts set the atmosphere yesterday for news of several socialite skiing fans who have been enjoying their favorite sport in the White Mountains.

Just back from an exhilarating week-end at Eastern Slopes are Lt. and Mrs. Charles F. Willis, 3d (Bo Eddy), who were out on the trails bright and early every morning despite the frigid 15 below thermometer readings. They were in a foursome with Bo's close friend and bridesmaid, Eleanor Pingree of Weston, and Lt. Charles W. Miller, USNR, of Texas, a flight officer stationed nearby with Lt. Willis

Post-debs Bo and Ellie used to go to Lake Placid every year for winter sports and have a colorful and attractive array of ski togs. This trip Ellie accented her dark eyes and brown hair with a white parka and navy accessories and Bo's blonde beauty was set off by a fur-lined pink parka which topped crimson gabardine ski pants.

Also glimpsed on the snowy trails was Sally Wigglesworth relaxing from her duties as chairman of the Vincent Club advertising campaign which is keeping the debs busy this week. Barsha Powers Shattuck was up from Chestnut Hill for some winter sports and Peggy MacDonald was having a wonderful time. Hope Noyes, a well known feminine yachtswoman, proved to be as adept on skis as beh nd the helm as she made her way down the difficult slopes.

Talent Check On Hub Girls

A quest for America's best amateur dramatic actress is sponsored locally by Columbia Pictures Corporatoin in association with Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters.

Any girl between 18 and 25, possessing a high school education, who has never appeared professionally, is eligible to enter the George Sand Memorial Talent Contest.

Contestants will be judged on dramatic ability and their reading of the famous "human jungle" speech, delivered by Merle Oberon, as Mme. George Sand in Columbia's "A Song To Remember," which opens its New England premiere at Loew's twin theaters Thursday, Jan. 25.

Dramatic schools and academies, little theater groups and university and college classes in drama and acting have already evinced great interest in this contest, which is offering to the winning girl perhaps the greatest array of prizes and honors ever given an amateur thespian.

Although national entries will close on May 15, the local finals will be held on the State Theater stage on Monday evening, Jan. 29. The local committee of five, which will pick the most talented amateur player in the Greater Boston area, consists of Miss Antonette Walker, former dramatic star of the legitimate stage; Mrs. Emily Perry Bishop, of the Lee-Bishop Dramatic School; Dwight Meade, of the Leland Powers Dramatic School faculty; Mrs. Gertrude Binley Kay, head of Emerson College's drama department.

PRODIGAL in entertainment values, "Hollywood Canteen" is proving one of the box office's behemoths of the year at the Metropolitan Theater, where it is holding over a second week. Joe E. Brown, a favorite USO entertainer with GI-Joe's everywhere, is demonstrating how he can make a doughnut disappear just like that.

Wuthering Heights Held Over

"Wuthering Heights," the Samuel Goldwyn film production of Emily Bronte's classic story, continues for a third week on the Majestic screen.

Merle Oberon, Laurence Olivier and David Niven head the large cast. Importantly featured are Donald Crisp, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Flora Robson and many equally prominent screen personalities.

Succeeding "Wuthering Heights" at the Majestic Theater will be the Nelson Eddy-Jeanette MacDonald co-starrer, "Naughty Marietta," second in a series of all-time film hits.

Hub GI, Only 21, Rises to Major

From buck private to 2d lieutenant at 18, 1st lieutenant at 19, Captain at 20 and now major at 21—that is the almost unbelievable rise of Maj. Nicholas J. Khoury of Rollins st., South End.

Son of immigrant parents, Maj. Khoury is now commanding a troop carrier squadron stationed in England, and is one of the youngest majors in the U. S. armed forces.

The young major believes his local activities had much to do with his rapid advancement. He had the benefit of 15 years as a member of the South End House, a United War Fund project, and practically all its activities, including several seasons at its caddy camp at Poland Springs, Me., where he had varying responsibilities, including that of counselor.

In addition, he was a cadet officer in the junior ROTC at Boston Latin School, where he was graduated in June, 1941.

With this Merriwell story in the background, the major's friends are hopeful they will be greeting him "Hello, colonel," before another year rolls around.

24 Clothing Coupons Allotted to Britons

LONDON, Jan 17. (AP)— Britons will get 24 clothing coupons for the next rationing period, which Hugh Dalton, president of the Board of Trade, said he hoped would be only six months long.

British civilians for some time have lived under the strictest rationing of the war. Women give up to three coupons for a pair of stockings, seven for shoes, nine for short-sleeve dresses, 18 for long-sleeve dresses. Men give 26 for a suit, nine for shoes.

waited in an effort to gain a glimpse of the principals.

At 10:30 a. m., before the sitting of the Court, police admitted 35 persons to the public gallery.

Earlier Hulten's counsel failed in their protests that Army officers had used "American methods" to wring incriminating statements from the handsome young paratrooper. The Court ruled the statements could be admitted as evidence.

In the statements of Mrs. Jones read by the prosecutor at the opening of the trial, she described Hulten's "cold-blooded murder" of Heath, who, she said, was shot in the back when the couple hired him to drive them in his private cab.

She and Hulten blamed each other for the slaying, the dancer stating she thought Hulten was using the gun to frighten Heath and Hulten being quoted by the prosecutor as saying, "had it not been for her, I would not have shot Heath."

His counsel told the jury that part of Hulten's defense would be that the actual shooting of Heath was accidental.

Lookee, Miss Thompson: How Nazi WPs 'Respond'

By AUSTEN LAKE

NOW IS THE TIME for such warm-hearted idealists as Miss Dorothy Thompson to try their test-tube theories on "re-educating" the German people—right here at home in our Nazi prison camps. It is interesting to observe how well we have progressed with our cordial inoculations of Democracy among these "maladjusted, unfortunate dupes" of the Hitler-Himmler doctrine.

Austen Lake

All warm-hearted idealists will kindly note that those potential Nazi "penitents" receive the standard U. S. Army food ration, complete with balanced calories and tested for taste.

(WITH THE U. S. 1st ARMY, BELGIUM, Jan. 15 (AP)—Prisoners captured from a Volksgrenadier regiment today admitted instances of German officers ordering American prisoners shot because of food shortage.)

They are afforded their own canteen stocks of cigarets, chocolate, toiletries and other P-Ex supplies with an 80c per diem pay.

(PARIS, Jan. 3 (INS)—Owing to shortage of Army cigaret supplies, U. S. line troops are often reduced to total abstinence or smoking captured German ersatz tobacco which they report tastes like chopped burlap.)

They are housed in comfortable, weather proof hutments, heated by oil fuel and encouraged to establish self-government, internal discipline and a free communal life under their own officers.

(U. S. FRONT LINE, BELGIUM, DEC. 17 (AP)—Muddy and shivering survivors, weeping with rage, reported that German tankmen with machine guns shot down captured Americans who were herded, unarmed, into an open field.)

The Case of Capt. Tropschuh

THEY RECEIVE AMPLE U. S. educational reading, including unexpurgated daily journals, and are granted recreational and cultural facilities according to the Geneva W-P pact. For these are "average, non-criminal types and a fair Gallup poll of the German army. So now let's see how earnestly they have soaked up our warm-hearted idealism and expelled the poisons of Frederik Nietzsche.

Item One—WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Officials of the War Department admit that six murders, two forced suicides and an unannounced number of beatings have been committed through Nazi "tribunals" in various prison camps. They say that such Gestapo activities have been stamped out, AT LEAST ON THE SURFACE, and that protection is provided for German prisoners WHO ASK FOR IT. And that's what I call hospitality.

Item Two (termed a "typical case")—CAMP CONCORDIA, Kan.—Capt. Felix Tropschuh, a 30-year-old Sudetan engineer, was suspected by his prison mates of having given information of several fellow officers' escape plan. A secret kangaroo "court of honor," Gestapo inspired, stripped Tropschuh of his insignia and expelled him from "German fellowship." Next morning, in an attempt to get protection, Tropschuh ran toward a passing U. S. guard truck, followed by a mob of screaming prisoners. The truck driver, fearing he was about to be assaulted, fled from the compound.

Later Tropschuh obtained an interview with the U. S. compound commander and asked protection. But the German "colonel-spokesman" persuaded the U. S. captain that the man was victim of his own hallucinations and personally guaranteed his safety. But that night, after withdrawal of the U. S. inside personnel, Capt. Tropschuh was taken to a solitary room by two German officers and forced to sign a paper, "I voluntarily take leave of life." Then while the officers stood outside the door he was left with a table, a chair and a strong rope. Soon afterward an American medical officer was notified to come and cut down the body.

And what did a U. S. inquest find? Why chums, "Suicide due to mental and perhaps physical coercion. Action against other German officers could not be sustained, except in the case of one who supplied the rope, whose IDENTITY COULD NOT BE LEARNED." And how's that for tricks?

The Case of Private Kettner

ITEM THREE—ALSO CAMP CONCORDIA, KAN.—Pvt. Franz Kattner was a 39-year-old Luftwaffe soldier from a part of Austria that is now Italy. His native tongue was Italian and he had a wife and son in Bolzano, Italy, whom he wanted to bring to America after the war.

He reported to camp authorities that he was ostracized from the "German fellowship," because he was non-Nazi and also refused to co-operate in the general thievery of U. S. articles. He said even his family at home had been threatened. U. S. guards reported that he was being booed in the prison mess.

So, for temporary protection, Kettner was placed among other Germans in the camp guard house under custody of American soldiers, while plans were made to transfer him elsewhere. But he developed such hyper-hysteria from fear that he could not eat and lost weight rapidly. One morning at 4 a. m. he was found dead, face down in his bunk, with wrists slashed by a razor. The inquest finding? Death by his own hand! Punishment? None!

I don't focus full blame on the Army, the camp commandant or the M. P.'s. They take orders from the top. But I cite these forced suicides, not to mention the six "social murders" as the products of our attempts at Democratic education of the Nazi here at home. Isolated examples? Not at all! For there were several hundreds, if not thousands, of Nazi officers and men involved in Camp Concordia's underground discipline.

So what to do if the W. P.'s don't respond to our warm-hearted idealism? I suggest as the most effective source of "re-education" to recall a couple of hundred battle-tough U. S. top sergeants from the combat lines where they have tested Nazi steel and treatment. Grant them privileges of combing those babies with lengths of lead pipe. Then I'll promise within a month all, including the Gestapo members, will be singing "Sweet Annie O'Grady" and chanting "To hell with Hitler" in four part Leider harmonies. They'd be magna cum laude scholars in no time. Hey Miss Thompson?

Gil Dodds Quits Track

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Gil Dodds changes his mind quite often but, as of today, he is definitely and unequivocally through with foot-racing. That's what he told Coach Jack Ryder this morning and that's what he told Lt. Col. Walter Brown, the man responsible for bringing him East.

"I'm leaving Sunday for Los Angeles to join a group doing gospel work," he said, and neither Ryder nor Brown would say him nay. After all, their opinion was, he's 26, married, has a child and must map his career. And he has just completed his studies at Gordon College of Theology and Missions.

Dodds has been "straddling the fence" for the past month. Upon his return from winning the Ft. Thomas, Ky.-Cincinnati six-mile road race on Thanksgiving Day, he was hesitant about starting training for the indoor campaign.

WORKS TODAY, TOMORROW

His ankle was bothering him, for one thing, and Ryder advised him to take a three-week respite. Dodds did, making a preaching tour of Canada.

The ankle felt stronger when he returned to Boston, and out he came to the Boston College track again. Resuming training, it took him only a few weeks to reach '44 form, and Ryder was picturing him lowering his own indoor mile record to 4:04. Dodds filled preaching engagements in Detroit and Chicago on the week-end but worked out at BC Monday.

Ryder gave his BC squad a day off because of the storm and was quite startled this morning when Dodds called him, said he had visited the BC track on Tuesday, had cleared enough snow away to run three miles. Following the announcement of his retirement, he added:

Gil Dodds Quits Track

"I'll be out again today and tomorrow," but didn't know if he'd start in Saturday afternoon's 'Y' two-mile run.

Well, there the case stands—as of today, we add, because Dodds does change his mind.

"MADE" N. Y. MEETS

If he goes through with his promise to call it quits, New York promoters will rip out what's left of their hair. It was Dodds alone who packed the N. Y. Garden last winter. Always he was on verge of breaking the record and the public wanted to be in at the kill.

His races were actually nothing but time trials because Dixon, MacMitchell et al had entered the service. But the fans shrieked their approval when the times for his quarters were announced and went into ecstacies when he finally scratched 1-10th of a second off the Cunningham-Fenske-MacMitchell 4:07.4 mark. The next week at Chicago he reduced it to 4:06.4.

Well, the divinity student from Nebraska gave the track world plenty of thrills in the three years he worked under Ryder. It will be a long time before his equal is seen around this section.

F. D. Puzzles Some Magnates

Most major league baseball executives placed an optimistic interpretation today upon President Roosevelt's latest statement on the future of the national game, although some reserved comment until later and others were doubtful of the President's exact meaning.

President Will Harridge of the American League applauded the President's statement, saying:

"We are greatly pleased with the statement made by the President in his press conference in reply to inquiries concerning the continuance of baseball. Baseball will carry on with what men are available and do the best it can to give the fans a good show."

Harridge did not regard the President's observation that "perfectly healthy young men" should not be playing baseball at this time as a threat to the game.

Leslie M. O'Connor, chairman of the major leagues' advisory council and secretary to the late baseball commissioner K. M. Landis for more than 20 years, expressed whole-hearted agreement with the President's attitude.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, said:

"I have no comment to make, nor or later. I just don't understand it, that's all."

Bill Dewitt, the Browns' vice-president and general manager, said:

"I wouldn't care to comment until I learn what is the president's definition of a healthy young man."

President Ford Frick of the National League could not be reached immediately for comment.

New York Giants Secretary Eddie Brannick hailed the President's statement as "good news."

"I cannot figure out what the President means," said Jack Zeller, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, today. "It is up to the government to decide who should play baseball, and not the ball clubs."

Cain Leads Bruins Out of Slump

By BILL GRIMES

For some weeks, rumors have been in circulation that Herbie Cain and Jack Shewchuk were on the auction block. Well, last night Mr. Cain and Mr. Shewchuk co-starred in the Bruins' 5 to 3 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs, thereby breaking a six-game losing streak.

For the second time in his career, Herbie Cain scored four goals. He had been in a bad slump. He hadn't scored a goal or been credited with an assist in seven games. He came up with two markers in the first period and duplicated that feat in the middle chapter.

Shewchuk started the plays on Cain's first and third goals on which Bill Thoms and Bill Cowley also got assists. "Cowboy" Bill and Pat Egan figured in Cain's second counter and Jack Crawford in the fourth, which resulted from a remarkable shot.

Although the Maple Leafs were well below par, as they have been in all three of the games they've played here this season, the Bruins looked more formidable then they have in weeks.

Paul Bibeault was as sturdy as the Rock of Gibralter.

SHEWCHUK BREAKS ATTACK

He didn't have as many saves as Frank McCool but he was practically unbeatable until about half way through the final period. Time and again, Mons. Paul was obliged to call on his experience to get him out of trouble but he weathered all attacks until the result was apparent enough for him to ease off a trifle.

After 13 minutes of scoreless hockey, Shewchuk broke up a Toronto attack and started down the left wing boards. After crossing the center red line, Shewchuk passed forward to Bill Thoms, who centered the puck and Herbie Cain batted it home for the first goal.

Four minutes later, it was Pat Egan who started a scoring play. Pat raced out of the Boston zone and gave the puck to Bill Cowley, who, in turn, slipped it over to Cain and the Bruins were two goals out in front.

With one minute and 30 seconds to go, Art Jackson broke down the left boards and fired a shot, which was so far off the target that the puck hit "Sweeney" Schriner's skate, made almost a right angle turn and wound up in the cage and the Maple Leafs were back in the ball game. But, not for long, for with 30 seconds to go, Rozzini and Armand Gaudreault combined for the third Boston tally, which put the Bruins two goals to the good at the first intermission.

Coach "Dit" Clapper turned in a super game last night, despite the fact that he didn't figure in any scoring. He was all over the ice rushing and breaking up Toronto plays and supplied much of the spark that snapped the Bruins out of a six-game losing streak.

Four goals down starting the final period, Coach "Hap" Day used "Sweeney" Schriner on the first line. "Sweeney" hasn't rounded into shape after his long layoff and Day has been playing him with the third line.

Coach Clapper started the Typhoons line in each period, and his strategy paid off for against Kennedy, Davidson and O'Neil, the Bruins scored four goals.

Referee Bert Hedges handed out no less than an even dozen penalties. On two occasions in the first period, Frankie Mario and Tedder Kennedy served two minute minor penalties and there were two double sentences in the final chapter.

Coach "Hap" Day stated yesterday, as he has done before that Paul Bibeault is the BEST goal tender in the N. H. L.

President's Green Light Saves Baseball Again

By JACK CONWAY

PRESIDENT Roosevelt has once more given baseball the green light on condition that it gets along with players who are not fit for military service. This means that the big league clubs will operate in 1945. They will use what players are available, and they feel that Saturday, Sunday and holiday crowds will be sufficiently large to enable them to make money.

More than 80 per cent of the big league players are classified either in 4-F or have been discharged from the military service for medical reasons. It is possible, of course, that with lowered military standards for the armed services that many of these men will be inducted into the Army or Navy.

Pres. Roosevelt

Baseball leaders felt that the President's statement means that men unfit for military service would be permitted to play baseball and that they would not be compelled to accept positions in war plants.

The 4-F players will be checked up very carefully by their draft boards. So will players who have received military discharges. The acceptance of Willie Pep, world's featherweight champion, for Army service after having previously been discharged by the Navy, indicates that on re-examination baseball will lose many stars.

Baseball, however, will be able to survive. The fact the President favors a continuence of the game provided men fit for the armed services are not playing will give owners and managers an incentive to go out and get the best possible players in view of war time regulations.

Older players, many of whom have physical disabilities which would ban them from the armed services, will compose the line-ups of most of the clubs. As the number of discharged veterans increases, baseball will receive opportunities to gain new strength.

No Travel Ban

BASEBALL men feared a travel ban might end the sport. Once horse and dog tracks were closed many persons high in the affairs of the big leagues felt there might be some objections to ball clubs traveling. There was also the thought that many of the fans travel long distances to see the games. It was contended by some baseball men that there might be government objection to this kind of travel.

The President's green light to baseball eliminates any danger of an ODT ban on travel by players or fans. It also means that players who are not physically fit for the armed services will not be marched away from their baseball jobs to a defense plant.

Sox, Braves Pleased

THE management of the Red Sox and Braves were naturally pleased by the President's statement. The two clubs have been going ahead with plans for 1945, and they now can make the necessary commitments.

Secretary Phil Troy has secured hotel accommodations for the Red Sox at Atlantic City. The club will train six miles outside of this resort.

Service men, as well as millions of fans, will be pleased by the news that baseball will be permitted this year. The game will give needed recreation and should be helpful as a morale builder.

Atkinson in 1-A For Third Time

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17 (AP)—Ted Atkinson, whose 287 winners during 1944 put him on top of the national jockey list, has just been reclassified 1A by his draft board for the third time. The veteran lightweight rider was examined twice before and rejected for being underweight.

He has two brothers now serving in the armed forces.

Ted makes his home here with his wife and baby daughter. He had signed to ride for J. M. Roebling and Col. C. V. Whitney again this season, the former having first call.

Willie Pep Waits Official Draft Order

HARTFORD, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Courant says today that it will be several days before Willie Pep, featherweight title holder, knows officially whether he passed his pre-induction examinations at New Haven.

While induction officials declined to comment, it appeared virtually certain that Pep, his papers reportedly stamped by the Army for general service, would become the first major sports figure to serve in both the Army and Navy in World War II.

Given a medical discharge last February after nine months' service in the Navy, Pep is one of the first of the country's sports figures to be re-examined under recent draft law rulings.

War Veteran Joins English High Squad

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Coach Bill Ohrenberger of Boston English High School will be greeting a flock of trackmen tomorrow afternoon at the 101st Infantry Armory in a quadrangular class meet with the Blue and Blue tangling with Trade, Dorchester and Commerce in the merriest mix-up of legs of the season.

And although Coach Ohrenberger knows what to expect "in strength" for his defending State Champions, he's bound to get a few surprises from the flock.

One of the most pleasant of the surprises could be 18-year-old Dick Horton, a distance man who has been working out all fall and this winter at Boston College under Jack Ryder. And when the weather has forced him indoors, such as yesterday, he's been keeping in trim at the intown Y. M. C. A.

THE KID HAS SPIRIT

Horton has been signed out because he is a World War II veteran, a youngster who wore the Navy blues for eight months before receiving his honorable discharge. He volunteered in October of 1943, leaving English High, went to school at Ames, Iowa, before being sent to Maryland for amphibious training. He was injured there, hospitalized and mustered out the following June.

He had spoken to Coach Ohrenberger about going out for track but he thought he had better put on weight first.

"I told him to do what he thought best and shortly after that I sent him a sweat suit so that he could work outdoors at B. C.," declares Coach Ohrenberger. "I know he's been training but beyond that I don't know whether to expect him out tomorrow or not. H's welcome, you can be sure of that."

Dick, in spite of his age, is only a sophomore in school but it's to his credit that he's back at the books and again participating in sports.

Coach Bill Powers of Boston Tech knew that he had a strong basketball team but he figured it would be another year before the Technicians would be ready for their best game . . . but the wild scoring spree of forward Fred Kisilowsky, a veteran, has been driving the team to three straight triumphs . . . Kisilowsky has tallied 62-points in beating Brandeis, Brighton and Roslindale . . . he contributed 25 and 23 points against Brighton and Roslindale respectively . . . local fans will have their eyes on the Tech star tomorrow afternoon against Charlestown.

Olympics Get Agile Courteau

Agile Maurice Courteau, who has missed the past five games because of illness, will return to the nets for the Boston Olympics this week, Coach Hago Harrington announced today.

Maurice will take over the duties from Harvey Bennett, the Boston Bruins' sub-goalie who was loaned to the Pics by Manager Art Ross, and will face New York Rovers at the Garden tomorrow and Saturday nights, and then will make the road trip to Baltimore for a game with the Blades Sunday.

The Olympics will be closely watching the outcome of tonight's game between Philadelphia and Baltimore on the Blades' home ice, for if the Baltimore entry wins, it will supplant the Pics as Eastern Hockey League leaders.

Only one point behind the Bostonians now, the Blades are making a determined drive both to wrest the championship leadership from the Pics, and to further solidify their lead for the Walker Cup.

Both of the games with the Rovers will start at 8:30 p. m. The Pics will take the morning train to Baltimore Sunday.

Snow Eater

The latest gadget designed for snow removal gets its first workout in the disposal of snow from the Boston & Maine's North Station. Discs in front force snow onto conveyor, which carries it to a second vehicle, where live steam reduces the white flakes to water. The steam is supplied by the locomotive, which pushes the contraption. The new plow eliminates 30 gondola cars formerly used for snow removal.
